I. Background: WIDA PRIME 2020

WIDA PRIME 2020 and the WIDA Mission

WIDA draws its strength from its mission, vision, and values—the Can Do Philosophy, innovation, service, collaboration, and social justice. This belief system underscores the linguistic, cultural, social, emotional, and experiential assets of multilingual learners, their families, and educators. As part of fulfilling its mission, WIDA has created PRIME.

WIDA PRIME offers tools to assist publishers and educators in determining a degree of alignment between a given set of instructional materials and the WIDA English Language Development Standards Framework, 2020 Edition (henceforth referred to as the Framework) based on the PRIME rubric. PRIME stands for Protocol for Review of Instructional Materials with the English Language Development Standards Framework, 2020 Edition.

Mission

WIDA advances academic language development and academic achievement for children and youth who are culturally and linguistically diverse through high quality standards, assessments, research, and professional learning for educators.

Over the years, there have been multiple reports indicating that there is a lack of standards-aligned, high-quality curricular materials that support multilingual learners well (see, for example, de Araujo & Smith, 2022; Estrada, 2014; Gándara et al., 2003; Loewus, 2016; Mitchell, 2019). With the release of the Framework, there is a recognition among educators that curriculum and instruction will need to shift, and that there is currently a lack of materials aligned to the Framework. One of the benefits of the PRIME review process is the feedback it provides to material developers for strengthening alignment. The productive conversations educators have while reviewing materials (i.e., the review process) provide additional benefits.

Through PRIME and a host of other resources it offers, WIDA hopes to increase the availability of high-quality instructional materials that are student-centered, culturally and linguistically sustaining, and responsive to multilingual learners' strengths and needs.

Increasing the availability of rigorous, high-quality core materials that attend to the diverse needs of multilingual learners is a critical avenue to move forward toward the realization of the Big Ideas of the Framework, namely

- Enhancing equity of opportunity and access
- Integration of content and language
- Collaboration among stakeholders
- Functional approach to language development

WIDA PRIME 2020: Audiences and Uses

The primary intended audiences of PRIME are educational entities, a term we use in this document to refer to both a) publishers and b) local users (districts, schools, and educators). They may use WIDA PRIME to

- Prompt productive conversations about how instructional materials are serving multilingual learners
- Guide self-reflection, self-analysis, self-assessment, and self-determination of a degree of alignment between a given set of instructional materials and the Framework via the criteria specified in the PRIME rubric
- Collect evidence and information about instructional materials for potential improvements and revisions to strengthen alignment with the Framework
- Support communication with stakeholders (e.g., parents, program directors, school boards, teachers, program reviewers) about instructional materials under consideration for adoption

In addition, local users may also use PRIME to

- Support district/school leadership or adoption committees in making recommendations and decisions about materials adoption. In particular, information in the PRIME seal report may help guide decision-making in relation to other data points and local considerations. (See disclaimers below: the PRIME seal does not imply overall high quality or that WIDA endorses a particular set of materials. The seal speaks only to alignment.)

WIDA PRIME 2020: Elements

- WIDA PRIME Portfolio Workbook: a guided workbook that the publisher uses to compile an evidence-based portfolio to demonstrate alignment between a given set of instructional materials and the Framework according to the PRIME rubric. It describes PRIME’s purpose, the elements that comprise it, the intended audiences, applicable uses, disclaimers, eligibility of materials for external review, definitions of terms, theory of action informing alignment methodology, approach to scoring, and the process of compiling and submitting a portfolio for review. In it, you will find the WIDA PRIME Rubric. The WIDA PRIME Rubric provides alignment criteria, indicators, descriptors, and a scoring scale for inferring a degree of alignment between a given set of instructional materials and the Framework.
- WIDA PRIME Seal: publishers may choose to submit the portfolio workbook to the PRIME review process in application to receive a WIDA PRIME seal. The PRIME seal indicates that WIDA-trained reviewers believe the publisher has provided sufficient evidence to determine a degree of alignment between a given set of instructional materials and the Framework, based on the PRIME rubric. Receipt of the PRIME seal indicates external validation of the publisher’s self-determined claims of alignment by a team of WIDA-trained reviewers. There is no guarantee that a submitted portfolio will earn the seal—seals will be awarded according to the review team’s evidence-based determination of a degree of alignment.
- This PRIME Report: Publishers’ materials that earn the seal may be posted, along with final reports, on the WIDA PRIME Instructional Materials Published Reviews page, which then serves as one data point to inform district and school choices in materials adoption. Publishers will edit this file to create a report. Fields in green provide space for entering information.

WIDA PRIME 2020: Eligible Materials for the External Review Process

WIDA PRIME spotlights the need for curricular coherence of core (Tier 1) instructional materials. Strengthening core instructional materials for multilingual learners through alignment to the Framework supports standards-based practices. It also promotes student achievement in the depth and breadth of a) academic content standards and b) in the WIDA ELD Standards Framework that helps provide multilingual learners with the necessary equity of opportunity to access grade-level content learning.

To support this goal, publishers may submit the following instructional materials for external review of alignment by a WIDA-trained team of reviewers as application for a PRIME seal:

- Materials for one full year’s course of study in the core academic disciplines (language arts, mathematics, science, and social studies or interdisciplinary materials) that are designed to align with the Framework.
- Materials for one full year’s course of study of dedicated ELD instruction that clearly and concretely connect to grade-level academic content standards.
 - Whether in the core academic disciplines or dedicated ELD, publishers may also submit adjacent grade levels when they are within the Framework’s grade-level clusters (K, 1, 2-3, 4-5, 6-8, 9-12) for an extended review. For example, if a publisher submits a portfolio for review of grade 4, they may also submit a rationale and evidence for why grade 5 maintains the same approach and structure of alignment to the Framework as grade 4 does. (For more information about the extended review, see Appendix A.)
 - Supplemental materials for multilingual learners may be submitted, but only if clearly and concretely connected to grade-level core instructional materials.

WIDA PRIME 2020: Inapplicable Uses and Disclaimers

WIDA PRIME offers supports for determining a degree of alignment between a given set of instructional materials and the WIDA English Language Development Standards Framework, 2020 Edition. WIDA PRIME does not speak to the ability of a curriculum to fully constitute a healthy, safe, and supportive learning environment for multilingual learners. Decisions in materials adoptions must therefore be complemented by additional information. Depending on local contexts and resources (e.g., technology, professional learning, wraparound supports), districts and schools may prioritize particular curricular criteria and indicators in different ways. Therefore, educators need to consider how information contained in the WIDA PRIME reports fits particular populations, programs, and goals. Whereas districts and schools should examine PRIME reports as one part of a thoughtful materials adoption process, it should be taken in relation to other locally determined data points.

PRIME IS NOT an introduction to the Framework or to curriculum design.

This publication is not intended as an introduction to the Framework or to curriculum design. A thorough understanding of the Framework and curriculum design are needed to effectively apply the PRIME rubric and review process. WIDA offers several ways to support learning about the Framework, including through the WIDA ELD Standards Framework page and a suite of professional learning offerings.

The PRIME seal does not imply overall high quality of materials. It refers only to alignment.

WIDA PRIME is not an evaluative tool that judges the overall effectiveness of instructional materials, and the PRIME seal does not imply that the submitted materials have been evaluated to show a positive impact on student learning outcome. As described in its theory of action, PRIME reviews yield a socially constructed inference about a degree of alignment between the Framework and a given set of instructional materials designed to teach them, in accordance with the criteria in the PRIME rubric. Yet instructional materials can and should do more, such as supporting development of student agency and critical stance and inviting student engagement in authentic and joyful ways. It is important for PRIME users to understand that at this time, PRIME alignment claims are limited to just that: alignment to the Framework. Other places where WIDA as an organization supports these important broader curricular concerns include, for example, the WIDA Mission, Vision, and Values, and the Big Ideas of the Framework.

The PRIME seal is not an endorsement from WIDA for any set of instructional materials.

WIDA does not make recommendations or determine that one set of instructional materials is better than another. Educators of multilingual learners work with a heterogeneous population with a wide range of strengths and needs, in a variety of programs, and in a wide range of environments. The question of what is “the best” curriculum for one student, teacher, or school requires more information than what WIDA PRIME analyzes through its alignment rubric.

The PRIME seal cannot account for how instructional materials are enacted in specific contexts.

Each school, classroom, teacher, and student is unique, and so are the instructional decisions educators make to engage multilingual learners during each task, lesson, and unit.

Local or publisher self-determination of alignment is not the same as earning the PRIME seal.

A local process of review that appropriately uses PRIME tools may be helpful in self-determining alignment of materials. That is one use of PRIME. However, the WIDA PRIME process cannot account for how a self-selected local or publisher panel may enact the PRIME tools in specific contexts. The PRIME seal can only be awarded through an external and independent review process completed by a team of WIDA-trained reviewers that makes a determination of sufficient alignment between a given set of instructional materials and the Framework, based on the PRIME rubric.

Language development occurs throughout the day and in all classrooms.

Although PRIME only reviews alignment of materials in relation to the four core content areas represented by the WIDA ELD Standards Statements (language arts, math, science, and social studies), we recognize that language permeates schooling and that all teachers are in fact language teachers.

II. Description of Materials Reviewed in this Report

Title of Materials: Wonders © 2023

Submitting Educational Entity: McGraw Hill Education

Description of Materials

Grade level: First Grade

Content area(s): Reading and Language Arts

WIDA ELD Standards Statement addressed:

ELD Standard 1: Language for Social and Instructional Purposes (ELD-SI)

ELD Standard 2: Language for Language Arts (ELD-LA)

General scope of materials (e.g., # of learning units included): Wonders ©2023 Grade 1 includes 10 units of instruction; each unit includes three weeks of instruction

Type of materials included (e.g., student core text and workbook, teacher's guide, tools of instruction, etc.):

The materials referenced in the submission include the following: Teacher components: Teacher's Edition, ELL Small Group Guide, Instructional Routines Handbook, Language Development Kit, Newcomers Kit, Language Transfers Handbook, ELL Unit Assessments; Student components: Reading/Writing Companion, Literature Collection, Oral Language Sentence Frames, Differentiated Genre Passages, Leveled Readers, Differentiated Texts

Links to other external reviews of the materials completed (e.g., EdReports, evidence for state-based reviews): EdReports.org, a widely respected independent K-12 curriculum review organization, evaluated Wonders © 2023 Grade K and rated it highly with all green scores across the three gateways: Text Quality and Complexity, Building Knowledge, and Usability. III. Publisher’s Self-Analysis of Alignment to Big Ideas

Four Big Ideas are interwoven throughout the Framework. Like the WIDA Can Do Philosophy, they support the design of standards-based educational experiences that are student-centered, culturally and linguistically sustaining, and responsive to multilingual learners’ strengths and needs.

- Learn more about the Big Ideas on pages 15-20 of the WIDA English Language Development Standards Framework, 2020 Edition.
- “Appendix F: Theoretical Foundations” offers an overview of theories and research that informed the development of the Big Ideas (pp. 354-367 of the 2020 Edition).

Big Idea: How do instructional materials reflect a commitment of Equity to Opportunity and Access?

Thinking Prompts: Where and how do materials reflect...

- The asset-based WIDA Can Do Philosophy? (pp. 18, 356)
- Linguistically and culturally sustainable pedagogies, including through the use of multiple languages and translanguaging practices? (pp. 18, 355-356)
- High expectations for all multilingual learners along with guidance for responsive and effective scaffolding? (pp. 18, 331, 367)
- Guidance and support for diverse cognitive and behavioral strengths, needs, and abilities? (pp. 18, 357)
- Ways to increase avenues of access, agency, and equity for all multilingual learners? (pp. 18, 356)

Publisher Narrative:

The Wonders program promotes asset-based approach to help multilingual learners in their college and career readiness. Recognizing that the ability to independently access increasingly complex text is an essential factor in students’ academic success, Wonders program provides access to complex, rigorous, grade-level texts and skills for all students, by employing research-based instructional strategies developed by many of our authors. Our theory of action is grounded in the belief that a high-quality equitable solution provides all students with opportunities to access and fully engage with rigorous, grade-level standards. Wonders offers extensive opportunities for all students to encounter text of appropriate complexity throughout the year. All grades have frequent opportunities for developmentally appropriate texts including rich, grade-appropriate, and meaningful discussion of complex texts every week. A Text Complexity Rubric rating for the texts in each Text Set is provided in the Teacher’s Edition. This includes Low, Mid and High Complexity ratings around Qualitative and Quantitative Measures, as well as Student Centered Tasks.

Wonders provides specific scaffolding support to help students access complex text. Examples include:

- Specific guidance and instructional notes to scaffold students as they develop strategies to read complex text and transfer these strategies to new texts.
- Prompts within the Teacher’s Edition that provide scaffolded instruction for text features that relate to text complexity with the goal of having all students read closely while accessing and comprehending complex texts.

Wonders received an all-green rating from EdReports, with the highest possible scores for Text Quality and Complexity in grades K-5. The qualitative analysis of “What Makes This Text Complex” is provided at the beginning of instruction for each anchor text in the Teacher’s Edition. Within the instruction for both anchor texts and shared reads, teachers will find ACT (Access Complex Text) scaffolds that provide specific strategies to use with students based on the qualities that make that text complex, such as required prior knowledge, genre conventions, or domain-specific vocabulary.

Wonders instruction provides extensive resources for differentiation. To help multilingual learners participate in grade level instruction and access grade level text, teachers will find scaffolding within daily lesson instruction. In whole group lessons, teachers can monitor and differentiate with the Differentiated Reading and Check for Success features within lessons as well as scaffolded instruction by using the Access Complex Text (ACT), Teach in Small Group, and ELL Spotlight on Language support boxes found within lessons and in the side columns of the Teacher’s Edition. Multimodal activities are offered throughout each text set to support students. The Approaching Level Small Group instruction pages provide opportunities for students to meet grade-level standards. These lessons include leveled readers, differentiated genre passages, phonics/word study, fluency, vocabulary, and comprehension.

The English Language Learner (ELL) supports for grade-level texts are provided throughout all units and provide consistent support for grade-level texts in both whole and small group instruction to help multilingual learners meet grade-level standards. The scaffolded support in the whole group instruction in the Teacher's Edition enables students to tackle grade-level activities and engage with their peers, while the support in the small group lessons in the ELL Small Group Guide provides opportunities to reinforce and develop grade-level skills and content they learn during whole group instruction.

Through literature, Wonders provides academically and educationally sound content, including the appropriate and equitable representation of diverse people and perspectives in all our instructional materials. The literature in Wonders offers relevant, respectful, and meaningful content that represents the lives and experiences of a range of individuals who belong to different racial, ethnic, religious, age, gender, linguistic, socio-economic, and ability groups in equitable, positive, and non-stereotypical ways. This allows all learners to see themselves reflected in the content they are learning.

Lessons in Wonders provide a variety of multi-sensory supports for learning. Many of the foundational skills lessons incorporate the use of multiple senses to bolster learning. Multimodal resources are structured into Wonders to open learning pathways for diverse learners. Instruction in the Teacher's Edition that utilizes a multi-sensory approach is highlighted by a Multimodal icon.

During daily instruction, students are provided with a variety of instructional materials that offer a multisensory approach to learning foundational skills. Students have varied practice of each foundational skill throughout the week. Materials include:

- Word Building Cards
- Response Boards (including Elkonin boxes)
- Photo Cards
- Sound-Spelling Cards
- Spelling Word Sort (online BLMs)
- Digital Activities

Big Idea: How do instructional materials Integrate Content and Language?

Thinking Prompts: Where and how do materials reflect...

- Opportunities for multilingual learners to develop content and language concurrently, with academic content as a context for language learning and language as a means for learning academic content? (pp. 19, 356)
- Access for multilingual learners to rich, standards-based, grade-level content, including by scaffolding up? (p. 18)
- Opportunities for students to use multiple means to engage, interpret, represent, act, and express their ideas in the classroom? (pp. 19, 356)
- Opportunities for multilingual learners to actively engage with peers while accessing challenging content activities? (pp. 18-19)
- Multimodality as inherent to and essential for how students make meaning and engage in disciplinary practices? (pp. 19, 356)

Publisher Narrative:

Wonders incorporates strategies, materials, and activities that address the needs of all students as they engage with grade-level content. Differentiated Instruction is provided in three proficiency language levels for multilingual learners. The scaffolded supports in the whole-group setting accommodate for the needs of various English language proficiency levels so that English language learners can learn and practice grade-level content and skills with their peers. This differentiation is provided in whole group and small group lessons throughout all the units. During Small Group time, students at each level are encouraged to Level Up to the next group.

In Grade 1, Unit 3, Week 1, Lesson 4, of the Grade 1 Teacher's Edition (page T47), after students have learned about bold print as a text feature, English Language Learners scaffolding is provided to help students complete Guided Practice/Practice. The teacher asks partners to tell what they see in the photo as they point to it. For Beginning students, the teacher helps them to reinforce the meaning of bold print. This support provides the opportunity for Beginning students to participate in conversation using basic vocabulary and grammar and to demonstrate and express ideas by retelling. For intermediate support, the teacher asks questions to help English language learners discuss why words in bold are different from other words using sentence starters. This support provides the opportunity for Intermediate students to participate in conversation using limited academic vocabulary across disciplines, make inferences, interpret basic vocabulary, and restate information. For Advanced/Advanced High students, the teacher asks questions to explain how the author used bold print. This support provides Advanced students the opportunity to participate in conversation using more sophisticated vocabulary, use academic vocabulary, analyze information, make more sophisticated inferences, and restate information using extensive vocabulary and grammar. This level of support of the various English language proficiency levels is also incorporated throughout the Grade 1 ELL Small Group Guide in the Access the Text lessons for grade-level and ELL-level texts (pages 106-113).

At the end of each unit, teachers can also use the Level Up chart, which provides descriptors, to assess students' progress and determine their proficiency level (Grade 1 ELL Small Group Guide, Unit 3, page 157).

In Grade 4, Unit 1, Text Set 2, Lesson 1, Teacher Edition (pp. T86-T87), the scaffolded instruction (p. T87) helps ELL students complete the Guided Practice activity (p. T86). For Beginning students, the teacher provides the meaning of the idiom "cat got your tongue," and students practice using it by completing a sentence frame. This support provides an opportunity for Beginning students to participate in conversation using basic vocabulary and grammar, and to demonstrate and express ideas by retelling. For Intermediate students, the teacher asks questions to help students use context clues to figure out the meaning of the idiom "cat got your tongue": "Does Maura say anything to her grandmother when she picks her up?" Then the teacher provides sentence starters for students to describe the meaning of the idiom. This support provides an opportunity for Intermediate students to participate in conversation using limited academic vocabulary across disciplines, make inferences and interpret basic vocabulary, and restate information. For Advanced/Advanced High students, the teacher asks them to use context clues from a paragraph to figure out the meaning of the idiom and describe it in their own words. This support provides Advanced students an opportunity to participate in conversation using more sophisticated vocabulary, use academic vocabulary, analyze information and make more sophisticated inferences, and restate information using extensive vocabulary and grammar. The teacher and students then repeat the activity for the other idiom, "standing up for myself," in the Guided Practice. This level of support of the various English language proficiency levels is also incorporated throughout the Small Group Guide lessons for grade-level and ELL level texts. See pp. 14-25 in the ELL Small Group Guide.

Big Idea: How do instructional materials encourage Collaboration among Stakeholders?

Thinking Prompts: Where and how do materials reflect...

- Guidance for collaboration among stakeholders (e.g., district and school leaders, content and language teachers, specialists, support personnel, students, families)? (pp. 19-20, 358)
- Guidance for all teachers and administrators to see themselves as responsible for fostering the language development of multilingual learners, while moving away from the idea that language specialists alone should assume sole responsibility for students' language development? (pp. 19-20, 358)
- Guidance for educators to ensure that multilingual learner's experiences across the day are coordinated and coherent? (pp. 19-20)
- Guidance for content teachers to develop insights into and respond to the language development needs of multilingual learners? (pp. 19-20)
- Guidance for content and language teachers to work together to collaboratively reflect, inquire, plan, and deliver instruction, support one another, and take collective responsibility for the success of multilingual learners? (p. 359)

Publisher Narrative:

Wonders provides a variety of Professional Learning Resources to support teachers and administrators. The explicit instruction in the Teacher's Edition is a central resource. The clear instructional routines are clearly presented in the explicit lessons from kindergarten through fifth grade. Following the instructional path teachers are guided in assisting students in developing habits of learning. Social emotional learning and enabling classroom culture to support the learning. The Instructional Routines Handbook is another resource for teachers in understanding the research behind the instructional routines.

Online Professional Development (PD) for teachers is available on-demand and can be found in the Resources > Professional Development section of the online Teacher Workspace. This online PD is part of every teacher's digital workspace, and includes:

- a Basics module that walks teachers through the curriculum structure in Wonders, overviews the most powerful instructional features, guides classroom set up, and provide tutorials for placement testing of students
 - a Digital Quick Start module that walks teachers through a step-by-step implementation of the Wonders digital features, including setting up the online calendar, lesson planning, and accessing digital teachers and student resources
 - additional on-demand modules that support teachers in applying best practice instructional strategies for reading lessons, writing in response to text, writing in the genres, social emotional learning, English language learning, and using assessment and data to inform instruction.
 - videos of model classroom lessons with master teachers leading students in close reading, writing to sources, guided reading, small group instruction, and more
 - a research base and whitepapers from Wonders authors like Doug Fisher, Tim Shanahan, Donald Bear, Jana Echevarria, Vicki Gibson and others
 - videos featuring Wonders authors and expert teachers discussing research-based best instructional practices for foundational skills, reading, writing, collaborative conversations, small-group management, instructional planning, assessment, and more
 - resources to support educational equity in the classroom, including guidance on social emotional learning and supporting English language learners
- resources for administrators to support teachers as they implement Wonders, including teacher and parent communication letters and classroom walk-through checklists

Big Idea: How do instructional materials take a Functional Approach to Language Development?

Thinking Prompts: Where and how do materials reflect...

- The framing of language development as an interactive social process that expands what multilingual learners can do with language over time in a diversity of contexts, rather than as a series of decontextualized and isolated grammatical structures? (pp. 356, 359-360)
- Guidance for systematic, explicit, and sustained language development alongside the academic demands of content? (pp. 19-20, 359)
- Explicit teaching of how language works for particular purposes, with particular audiences, and in particular sociocultural contexts? (pp. 18, 20, 355-356, 359)
- Guidance for teachers to support multilingual learners in developing control over increasing ranges of the registers and genres required both for school and for the learner's own purposes, including highlighting multilingual learners' ability to select, adapt, negotiate, and use a range of linguistic resources that are appropriate to context? (pp. 356, 359)

Publisher Narrative:

At the beginning of each text set, Student Outcomes are provided to show what content-standard driven skills students will be practicing and applying. Lesson planners are also provided, with information on language expectations for the text sets, by week for each text set and lesson, and to indicate the unit/lesson organization. They list the key language students will be using, the content students will be exploring, and specific language skills. They also include lessons teachers can use for differentiated instruction, including for multilingual learners. The Introduce the Concept lessons at the beginning of each text set introduce students to the Essential Questions. The teacher also introduces the genres students will be exploring throughout the text sets.

Lessons in the Teacher's Editions includes objectives for the lessons. These objectives use the language of academic content standards for language arts as well as science and social studies, when applicable. Students are also provided with learning goals to help focus their attention on the content, language, and/or modes of communication they will be learning about, practicing, and/or applying.

The objectives and learning goals are aligned in the ELL Small Group Guide lessons. Furthermore, the instructions also include language objectives crafted specifically for these small-group lessons. They highlight the key KLU and mode or modes of communication most prominent in each lesson.

The Teacher's Editions lessons teach the language they expect students to use that is necessary for understanding and communicating about the content within the specific genres. In Teacher Think Alouds, teachers model language use and then guide students in using the same language by asking questions. The student-facing Reading/Writing Companion provides a framework for students, highlighting the genre features of the Shared Reads. Also, the prompts provided in the student edition help guide students in making sense of text structures and the language of schooling. Students further apply the language in diverse ways such as during Student Think Alongs, in the Anchor Text selection, when discussing a topic with a partner, or writing analytically about a text they have read. Spotlights on Language and leveled scaffolds are provided for multilingual learners to help them with their comprehension and to participate in discussions, and to support their writing.

The ELL Small Group Guide lessons provide multilingual learners with linguistically accommodated instruction that take into account the word/phrase and sentence dimensions of language so students can meet content standards and practices connected to language expectations.

- Vocabulary is pretaught, and students are provided with scaffolded sentence frames and prompts as they read and discuss texts together.
- Partners can work together using the Scaffolded Shared Read to read and understand these texts at an accessible language level. This resource provides additional language scaffolds, including a glossary to answer questions about texts.
- Lessons for Genre Passages, online digital leveled texts with the same genre focus and Essential Question as the Shared Reads and Anchor Texts also provide additional scaffolding to support students in learning and using the language of schooling.
- The Vocabulary: Morphology routine found in the ELL Small Group Guide Instructional Routines section supports students at the word level. The teacher creates a chart to help students see how words are related. Students then reproduce that same chart and use it for other vocabulary words they are studying. The Functional Analysis routine helps students at the sentence level with helping them comprehend complex sentences by identifying the function of words and phrases within sentences and rewriting the sentences in their own words.

Teacher and student materials support what students can do in relation to language expectations in a variety of ways using multimodal forms of communication, integrating the interpretive and expressive modes of communications as they read, listen, discuss and write in the disciplinary practices, texts, and tasks. Instruction is provided so multilingual learners are communicating in interpretive and expressive modes everyday, as indicated in the planners. And student resources are provided for multilingual learners to practice and acquire grade-level content through integrated modes and instruction and content is aligned to grade-level texts and activities in each text set.

For multilingual learners, resources are provided to help them practice, apply, and use language functions and features they encounter through texts and grade-level activities and work, as mentioned in the previous section. The ELL Small Group Guide includes an ELL Resources chart that indicates which domains are supported in each resource. All four domains are integrated into most resources.

IV. Reviewer's Analysis of Alignment to Components of the Framework

Underpinned by the four Big Ideas, the WIDA ELD Standards Framework offers road signs to set goals for curriculum, instruction, and assessment for multilingual learners. The Framework consists of four components (ELD Standards Statements, Key Language Uses, Language Expectations, and Proficiency Level Descriptors) that work together to make a comprehensive picture of language development.

Portfolio Part C: Alignment to Components of the Framework. For each Framework component, the publisher completed a self-reflection and analysis considering the following:

- Each criterion description (match, depth, and breadth)
- Indicators for each criterion (with direct references to page numbers in the 2020 Edition)
- Key questions for each criterion

For each criterion, publishers

- Made an evidence-based claim of alignment
- Provided a justification for the claim
- Provided strategic and sufficient evidence to support the claim (include page numbers and direct links).

Potential sources of evidence across criteria include, non-exhaustively:

- Teacher edition guidance: prompts, recommendations, criteria, and pedagogical rationale
- Learning goals, objectives, and targets (e.g., unit goals and lesson objectives)
- Unit and lesson learning sequences, tasks, activities, and assignments
- Rubrics, formative and summative assessment tasks, other progress monitoring materials
- A variety of multimodal supports across activities allowing various entry points for students at varying levels of English proficiency
- Guidance/prompting to offer students multiple means of engagement, representation, and action and expression (e.g., use of home languages, visual and graphic supports)
- Guidance for community and learning norms, routines, protocols, structures, and models
- Guidance for student interactions and discussions (e.g., grouping strategies, interactive supports)

Feedback: Alignment to Framework Component I – ELD Standards Statements

The five WIDA ELD Standards Statements guide us to create materials that simultaneously develop content and language, where language development is positioned in service of disciplinary learning. Standard Statement 1, Language for Social and Instructional Purposes (ELD-SI) helps teachers become aware of language for social interactions, everyday routines, negotiation, and problem-solving. ELD-SI works alongside and blends into Standards Statements 2-5 that address disciplinary language (ELD-LA for Language Arts, ELD-MA for Math, ELD-SC for Science, and ELD-SS for Social Studies). This interweaving reminds us that students communicate to learn, but also to convey personal needs and wants, to interpret and present different perspectives, to affirm their own identities, and to form and maintain relationships.

- Learn more about the Standards Statements and the relationship of Standards Statement 1 to Standards Statements 2-5 on pages 24-25 of the 2020 Edition.
- “Appendix F: Theoretical Foundations” offers an overview of theories and research that informed the development of the WIDA ELD Standards Statements (pp. 354-367).

On the next page you can read the reviewer’s analysis of alignment to components of the framework considering the following:

- Each criterion description (match, depth, and breadth)
- Indicators for each criterion (with direct references to page numbers in the 2020 Edition)
- Key questions for each criterion

Match is the degree to which instructional materials connect to each component of the Framework.

- Criterion Match.ELD.1 determines whether the same or similar concepts and ideas about language development appear in materials and in ELD-SI.
- Match.ELD.1 is met if evidence related to indicators clearly shows that materials explicitly and concretely connect to the indicators of ELD-SI.

How do instructional materials connect to ELD Standards Statement 1? (ELD-SI)
Match.ELD.1: Indicators	Match.ELD.1: Key Questions

Review Notes:

The materials for Wonders Grade 1 reflect students' cultures, languages, and backgrounds. An example is found in the teacher resource materials. The leveled readers are reflective of different cultures and backgrounds. Some of the titles include It's Labor Day, Helping Me, Helping You, and Latkes for Sam. Another example of where cultures and languages are reflected is in the readers that are available for students. One paired reading text that is available for students is Abuelita's Lap which is a poem about family and culture. This is one of the many books available in the leveled readers for students.

The materials support language for social and instructional interactions. An example is found Week 1 of Unit 2 where there is a section called "paired read" where students work with a partner and read a text then work with one another on a procedural activity. The text for the week is, Homes Around the World. Upon completion of the reading, students are asked to work with their partner and discuss places animals live together and then students are asked to write words about where animals live together.

Build Vocabulary

The materials available in Wonders Grade 1 materials intertwine ELD-SI with content learning represented by Standard 2—5, ELD-LA. The resource library contains several resources that represent the key ideas of LA. Each of the lessons in the units contain a section addressing grammar and mechanics. An example of this is found in Unit 5 Week 4. This specific grammar activity focuses on prepositions and prepositional phrases. Students are provided with a brief discussion and examples of prepositions.

Review Notes:

Wonders Grade 1 materials refer to ELD Standards Statements as drivers of language development. The materials specifically focus on ELD Standard Statement #2—the language for language arts. The resources support multilingual learners to develop language while simultaneously engaging in grade-level content instruction through multiple offerings of content area topics. Students reach grade-level material through the support of graphics, organizers, frames, and visuals. A graphic organizer is found in Unit 6 Week 5 classroom materials, and it is designed to guide the students through walking through the author’s claim.

The daily lessons planner includes lesson support that addresses content LA standards and the teacher resources available include sentence stems and sentence frames that can be used with each lesson.

? How does the author organize information in a way to help you know about George's life?

Talk About It Reread pages 12 and 13. Talk about how the author tells the events of George's life. Which words show when an event happened?

Cite Text Evidence Draw three things that happened in George Washington's life. Write when they happened.

The resources support multilingual learners in communicating information, ideas, concepts, and encourages engagement in disciplinary practices through opportunities to represent ideas and learning through both oral and written domains. The use of content and language standards keep focus on both content and language learning. Materials that support oral and written domains are found in the resources section. There is a resource called "ELL Small Group Guide" that provides multiple opportunities for students to speak and write. The example below is from the reading, The Magpie's Nest.

Read the Text

Use the Interactive Question-Response routine to help children understand the story.

Paragraphs 1–2 Read the text aloud as children follow along. Point to the illustration. There are many birds in the picture. Point to the bird in the nest. This bird is called a magpie. Remind children that they can use a dictionary to find meanings of unfamiliar words. Its name in the story is also Magpie. Say magpie with me. Which bird has a nest? Magpie has a nest.

Beginning Point to the birds outside the nest in the illustration. Do these birds have nests? No, they do not have nests. Does Magpie have a nest? (yes) What do the other birds want? The other birds want to make nests like Magpie's nest.

The materials included in Wonders Grade 1 include opportunities for multilingual learners to engage in interactive activities and discussions to simultaneously develop language and conceptual understandings. The Teacher Resources include a document for teachers, Essential Routines Handbook, that helps the teacher successfully set up classroom processes and procedures for effective partner interactions and resources to support classroom instruction and group work. The resources available for the teacher include a document called, "ELL Small Group Guide." This document includes activities that allow the students to interact with speaking in each lesson. Language objectives for each lesson outline the expectation for speaking.

LANGUAGE OBJECTIVES

Children will narrate the sequence of the story, using words first and next.

Children will inquire about the story by ask and answer questions.

Additionally, there is a resource in the resources library that includes suggested activities for speaking. This resource is called, Bridge to English, Grade 1, Introduction. This resource provides suggestions and options of how the teacher can integrate speaking into the lesson.

SPEAKING: RETELL

Help children use the pictures on the Read-Aloud Cards to retell the story. Tell them to answer the questions. Help with vocabulary and usage as needed.

Review Notes:

The materials for Grade 1 Wonders are reflective of an asset-based approach and support multilingual learners to use their experiences, linguistic and cultural backgrounds, and intersectional identities in multiple ways. The additional student reads include books that explore and discuss topics related to culture and experiences. Examples of the readings include It's Labor Day, Helping Me, Helping You, Latkes for Sam, and Homes Around the World. The resource library also contains a supplemental resource, Newcomer Cards (K-2), that has pictures of different items as well as the name of the item to go with the picture. This resource helps the multilingual student make the connection between the home and target language.

The daily lessons, available for teachers, provide opportunities that support multilingual learners as they interact with peers and adults in multiple ways. Each lesson has a section for ELLs where they can listen, speak, read, and write.

The materials included in Wonders allow students the opportunity to explicitly develop language in service of grade-level disciplinary knowledge, skills, concepts, and practices. This is evidenced in the teacher resources available in Unit 5 Week 4. The lesson standards for the grade level are included which reflect grade level standards, lesson objects, learning goals, and academic language needed. This format allows the teacher to address grade level topics and the needed support for multilingual learners.

Breadth is the degree to which instructional materials consistently represent each component of the Framework.

- Criterion Breadth.ELD determines whether materials consistently and systematically support language development in ways that are congruent with the concepts, ideas, and practices represented in the WIDA ELD Standards Statements (ELD-SI, ELD-LA, ELD-MA, ELD-SC, and ELD-SS).

Review Notes:

The materials for Grade 1 Wonders are reflective of an asset-based approach and support multilingual learners to use their experiences, linguistic and cultural backgrounds across lessons, units, and the course of study. The scope and sequence included with the materials provides evidence of this inclusion. The additional student reads include books that explore and discuss topics related to culture and experiences. Examples of these readings include It's Labor Day, Helping Me, Helping You, Latkes for Sam, and Homes Around the World. The resource library also contains a supplemental resource, Newcomer Cards, that has pictures of different items as well as the name of the item to go with the picture. This resource helps the multilingual student make the connection between the home and target language.

The materials provide opportunities and supports for students to expand what they can do with language to communicate information, ideas, concepts and engage in disciplinary practices necessary for academic success across lessons, units, and the course of study. This is evident in many of the resources available for teachers and students: differentiated instruction, scaffolds, language objectives, and various topics and themes exist to support students as they progress through each unit and lesson.

The daily lessons, available for teachers, provide opportunities that support multilingual learners as they interact with peers across lessons, units, and the course of study. Each lesson has a section for ELLs where they can listen, speak, read, and write. This is also reflected in the scope and sequence that is available with the materials.

Key Language Uses (KLUs)—Narrate, Inform, Explain, Argue—emerged from a systematic analysis of academic content standards, disciplinary practices, and research literature. They bring focus and coherence to the language of schooling, helping educators make choices in what to prioritize during curricular planning for content-language integration.

- Learn more about KLUs on pages 26-27
- Take a deeper dive on KLUs: A closer Look on pages 217-233.
- “Appendix F: Theoretical Foundations” offers an overview of theories and research that informed the development of KLUs (pp. 354-367).

Review Notes:
In the context of grade-level content learning, Wonders Grade 1 instructional materials define the KLUs. Students explore a variety of genres and genre families. Teachers in Grade 1 are encouraged to talk about the books and text the students are interpreting and expressing. Throughout the entire curriculum, students are reading, writing, talking about, and listening to different genres. For example, in Wonders Grade 1 Unit 5 students are interacting with several genres within the unit. The example below shows Teacher's Guide Unit 5 and illustrates the use of several different genres of text within the unit.

Reader and Task Considerations

Reader: Children should be reminded that folklore often takes us a moment or lesson and that they should listen for it as the story progresses.

Reader: Children will need to use their knowledge of sound-making, correspondences and high-frequency words to read the text.

Reader: Children should not need any background information before reading this story.

Reader: To support comprehension, teachers should allow time for children to follow the directions in the text to make the instruments.

Task: The questions for the Interactive Read-Aloud are supported by teacher modeling. The tasks provide a variety of ways for students to begin to build knowledge and vocabulary about the text and topic. The questions and tasks provided for the other texts are at various levels of complexity, ensuring that all students can interact with the text in meaningful ways.

In the context of grade-level content learning, Wonders Grade 1 instructional materials identify the relationship between KLUs and academic content standards. The academic content standards for each text are connected to the genre, skills, and strategies students learn through the texts. The “Weekly Standards” tab for Unit 5 shows connections to academic content standards. These connections are present throughout the “Weekly Planning” sections of the Wonders curriculum.

In the context of grade-level content learning, the Wonders Grade 1 instructional materials explain how genres work as a way of organizing language use. In each unit, students and teachers discuss and interact with multiple KLUs. Students and teachers discuss purposes for genre writing through modeled writing. Students practice writing and talking about the books they read. By the time students come to the end of each unit, they have interacted with mentor texts of different genres to build knowledge of a topic. This makes them ready to use a KLU in writing that matches the purpose. The example below shows students writing for a particular purpose in a particular genre from Teacher's Guide Unit 5.

In the context of grade-level content learning, Wonders Grade 1 instructional materials highlight how KLUs work in particular disciplines. Please see the example above.

Wonders Grade 1 provides ample opportunities for teachers and students to read, speak, write, and listen to texts from different genres. Each unit of study provides guidance on instruction for teachers in the most prominent KLUs for this grade level. The Teacher's Guide for Unit 5 shows strategies for engaging in collaborative conversations. This gives students a chance to practice the KLUs while speaking to one another.

Reflect Ask children to reflect on each goal and fill in the bars to show what they know now. Explain that they will fill in the bars on page 157 at the end of the week to show their progress.

Activities like the one above help to put the KLUs into action. The students are using the KLUs for a wide variety of purposes. In addition, the students are continuously working with all genres throughout the curriculum.

Breadth is the degree to which instructional materials consistently represent each component of the Framework.

- Criterion Breadth.KLU determines whether materials consistently and systematically support language development in ways that are congruent with the concepts, ideas, and practices represented by KLUs.
- Breadth.KLU is met if evidence related to indicators clearly shows that materials consistently and systematically address teaching and learning in service of KLUs (or prominent genres of schooling).

Review Notes:

Evidence of KLUs is present throughout the entire scope of Wonders Grade 1. Students are asked to use KLUs from the very first lesson. This continues throughout the program. When studying the Scope and Sequence of the materials, one is able to see practice with each KLU in a variety of contexts for a variety of purposes. In each Wonders Grade 1 unit, students are given opportunities to practice both informal and more formal writing. Language features of the specific genre are reviewed and practiced before the students use them in the context of their own writing and discussion. This is the format for all units of learning, allowing for teachers to expand what students can do with KLUs over all lessons and all units.

Feedback: Alignment to Framework Component III – Language Expectations

Language Expectations are goals for content-driven language instruction. Developed from a systematic analysis of academic content standards, Language Expectations are built around a set of Language Functions, which in turn are supported by example Language Features (e.g., types of sentences, clauses, phrases, and words).

Learn more about Language Expectations on pages 28-30.

Take a look at grade-level cluster materials to see Language Expectations (with Language Functions and Language Features)

An example of this expansion support is reflected in Unit 3 Week 5 of the daily lessons. There is a section under differentiated instruction that provides language and words needed for each level of students, approaching level, on level, beyond level, and ELL which provide appropriate suggestions at each proficiency level.

Review Notes:

The materials provide opportunities where students can explore how language functions work. This is reflected in the reading/writing companion that accompanies each lesson. An example is found in Unit 5 Week 4 of the daily lessons. Students are asked to pick a task from the box and write directions about “how to” carry out an activity.

Activity 3 Write Directions

Challenge

How To Brush Teeth
How To Put On a Coat

- Pick a task from the box. Write the directions in your notebook. Use three or more steps. Be sure to put the steps in order.
-  Trade directions. Did your partner skip any important steps?

The materials explore how language features carry out particular language functions. An example of the features supporting the function can be found in Unit 3 Week 4 where the features are used to carry out the function when students are asked to compare and contrast concepts or entities by differentiating attributes of objects (seals and penguins).

Details: Compare and Contrast

Authors often include details that show how things are the same or different to explain something in the text.

- When you compare, you think about how things are the same.
- When you contrast, you think about how things are different.

The materials also make the language of content learning visible for students. The texts and topics provide opportunities for multilingual learners to develop content and language concurrently. Teachers can use the reading writing companion unit to extend the lesson. An example is reflected in Unit 5 Week 4 in the story of Share the Harvest and Give Thanks where teachers use the informational text as a platform for building student's language through content. Review Notes:

The materials for Wonders Grade 1 expand on what students can do in relation to Language Expectations over lessons, units, and the course of study and follow the same format consistently. The language expectation (objective) is clearly stated at the beginning of each unit as reflected in the daily lesson guide for teachers. Students engage in multiple activities throughout the lesson that expand on the language expectation. The recursive routines found in the materials provide consistency, allowing students to automatize lesson and activity procedures and focus on expanding what they can do around language expectations. This is reflected in the scope and sequence outline. The materials include an Instructional Routines Handbook which outlines classroom routines that can be replicated in each lesson across all units. These routines help to reinforce consistency and expectations for the content and classroom. Some of the essential routines include: Collaborative Conversations, Reading, Writing, and Word Work.

Each lesson in the unit provides students with opportunities to explore how language functions and language features help students achieve the purposes of the Language Expectations over lessons, units, and the course of study. The ELL Small Group Guide provides language features within the independent time activities where students can practice reading, writing and vocabulary with differentiated writing frames.

The materials available in Wonders support students as they engage with interpretive and expressive communication modes across lessons, units, and the course of study. An example of this is seen in the ELL Small Group Guide resources that accompany the materials. Each lesson provides opportunities for students to listen, speak, read, and write. Students are asked to read, take notes, and share their notes with a partner.

Proficiency Level Descriptors (PLDs) are an articulation of student language performance across six levels of English language proficiency. PLDs are written in interpretive and expressive communication modes, and represent three dimensions of language use: discourse, sentence, and word/phrase. While Language Expectations offer goals for how all students might use language to meet academic content standards, PLDs describe how multilingual learners might develop language across levels of English language proficiency as they move toward meeting Language Expectations. In this way, PLDs can inform choices about how to monitor and support learning, so that instructional materials and instruction can maintain grade-level cognitive challenge and rigor while intentionally scaffolding content and language development.

Learn more about PLDs and the dimensions of language on pages 31-34.

PLDs appear in grade-level cluster materials (Section 3).

Appendix D offers some technical notes about PLDs, as well as a compilation of all PLDs, K-12 (p. 329).

Review Notes:

In the context of grade-level learning, Wonders Grade 1 instructional materials offer a range of possibilities for language development targets for multilingual learners who may be in various stages of language development as described in the six levels of the Proficiency Level Descriptors. Teachers are encouraged to meet students where they are in their language journeys and help them excel, as shown in the example below from Wonders Grade 1 ELL Small Group Guide.

Advanced/Advanced High Have pairs reread page 6 and decide which sentence is the cause and which is the effect.

Pages 10–12

Read pages 10–11 aloud as children follow along. To support understanding, guide them to explain why Flutter is hiding. Help students correct or confirm predictions from the previous pages.

Beginning Help children use pictures to identify Flutter. Point to Flutter on pages 2–3 and 10–11. Flutter is a caterpillar/butterfly.

Intermediate Help partners explain what happens to Flutter: Now Flutter is a butterfly. She can fly to the sun.

Advanced/Advanced High Have pairs discuss: Was Flutter playing hide and seek? No, she wasn't. She was becoming a butterfly.

Respond to Reading Have partners work together to retell the story and respond to the questions on page 12.

Focus on Fluency

Read pages 10–11 to model appropriate intonation. Read the passage again, and have children repeat after you.

Paired Read: “Our Sun Is a Star!”

Make Connections: Write About It

Echo-read with children. Discuss: What goes around the sun? Earth and the moon go around the sun. Help children make connections, using the questions on page 15. The sun feels warm to Harry. The sun feels warm to people, but it can burn them.

Leveled Reader

Build Knowledge: Make Connections

Talk About the Text As they read these texts, have partners discuss what they can see in the sky.

Write About the Text Have students add their ideas to the Build Knowledge pages of their reader's notebooks.

Self-Selected Reading

Help children choose a fiction selection from the online Leveled Reader Library, or read the Differentiated Text, “Cora.”

FOCUS ON SCIENCE

Children can extend their knowledge of things we see in the sky by completing the science activity on page 16. STEM

LITERATURE CIRCLES

Lead children in conducting a literature circle using the Thinkmark questions to guide the discussion. You may wish to discuss what children have learned about the characters Harry and Flutter in Hide and Seek in the Leveled Reader.

FORMATIVE ASSESSMENT

STUDENT CHECK IN

Have partners share their Respond to Reading. Have children reflect, using the Check-In routine.

LEVEL UP

IF children can read Hide and Seek ELL Level with fluency and correctly answer the Respond to Reading questions,

THEN tell children they will read a more detailed version of the story.

- Use page 3 of Hide and Seek On Level to model using Teaching Poster 32 to list a cause and an effect in the selection.
- Have children read the selection, checking their comprehension by using the graphic organizer.

Teachers are given resources for scaffolding of content and differentiated language supports throughout the curriculum.

The material reflects a range of language development targets for students at different levels of English proficiency.

Both the interpretive and expressive modes are reflected in the complete set of Wonders Grade 1 materials. Each Lesson provides teachers with opportunities to engage students in listening, speaking, viewing, representing, reading, and writing. At the beginning of each unit, students are encouraged to make goals for themselves. This allows the students to have agency in their learning.

Examples of PLDs are evident throughout the scope of the Wonders Grade 1 materials. They reflect a range of language development targets across the units of learning. Students have access to language frames, anchor charts, and words for learning in each and every unit of learning.

Wonders Grade 1 provides resources to maintain cognitive rigor for all students while supporting multilingual learners at various levels of English proficiency. For example, students are asked to collaborate with their peers to discuss evidence of their learning in a variety of ways. In the resource, “Oral Language Sentence Frames,” students are given supports to engage in content related discourse and discussion.

Wonders Grade 1 provides multiple opportunities for students to practice each of the three dimensions of academic language. In each unit of learning throughout the curriculum, students are encouraged to interact with vocabulary words in a variety of contexts. There are opportunities for instruction in language features that are specific to a genre, and there are multiple opportunities to use these words and features in context.
